

JP Tower Nagoya is adjacent to Nagoya Station of Japan Railways. The building with 40 floors above ground and three underground is occupied by office tenants and commercial facilities. The accessway from Nagoya Station to the building's office lobby provides easy access to the building. This building, a major new landmark in Nagoya City, displays Nagoya's mythical creature, "Shachihoko" (a creature with the head of a tiger and the body of a fish) in the atrium lobby. The operation of 18 escalator units are harmonized with the modern design of the building's interior and the large atrium lobby.
